YOUNG PROFESSIONAL SCHOLARSHIP

We are proud to support young producers, researchers and extension professionals from the southern Australian livestock industries to attend Livestock 2024 Conference. The scholarships aim to assist young professionals with associated conference costs (conference registration, accommodation and some travel) and increased networking opportunities. Seven scholarships are available.

LIVESTOCK 2022 - YOUNG SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS

WHAT IS THE LIVESTOCK 2024 CONFERENCE

LIVESTOCK 2024 is the third biennial conference delivered by SALRC. The Conference will be held at the Atura Hotel, Albury on 21-22 August 2024. A copy of the Livestock 2024 Program is available for download.

The theme is “environmental challenges and opportunities for Australian livestock industries”.

Outcomes sought include:

- Identification of key practical, and scientifically credible, components of environmental sustainability on Australian livestock farms and throughout the meat supply chain
- Research, development, extension and adoption needed to verify sustainability targets, their impacts on productivity and establishment of credible monitoring and reporting processes to meet the needs of both producers and red meat customers
- Understanding the economic impacts, on farm and in our markets for meat, of implementing sustainability best practice to meet community and market expectations
- Identify the training and advisory/support services needed by livestock producers to implement sustainability best practice and monitor outcomes.

THE SCHOLARSHIP

WHAT WILL THE SCHOLARSHIP INCLUDE:

Costs covered include*:

- Conference Ticket – valued at $400
- Accommodation – Two nights accommodation (valued at $199 p/n)
- Travel - up to $500 (depending on accommodation requirements)

total allocation to attend capped at $1,300 per person*

REQUIREMENTS OF SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS:

As a scholarship recipient, there is an expectation that you will:

- Attend the full two-day conference.
- Participate and contribute to workshops.
- Participate in a Q&A panel session with fellow scholarship recipients at the SALRC Rural Bank Livestock 2024 Conference Gala Dinner.
- Be available for a meet and greet with scholarship sponsors at the conference.
- Provide feedback to SALRC and your associated regional committee on learnings and outcomes from the two-day conference.

SCHOLARSHIP PLACEMENTS:

The scholarship recipient from each SALRC Region will be decided by the relevant SALRC Regional Chair, with input from their Regional Committee Members.

ABOUT SALRC

SALRC is one of three Australian livestock research councils that provide recommendations on research and development (R&D) and extension and adoption (E&A) initiatives and investments for the benefit of Australian red meat and livestock industries.

SALRC is an independent Incorporated Association with a footprint that covers the area in Queensland where sheep are run and all of South Australia, New South Wales, Victoria, and Tasmania. SALRC members include Meat and Livestock Australia (MLA), all the State Agriculture Departments (within its footprint), Local Land Services (NSW), CSIRO, nine universities, Australian Wool Innovation (AWI) and Animal Health Australia (AHA).

In addition to the member bodies (above) SALRC has seven Regional Committees across four states and the Queensland sheep area, each with a Chair and six livestock producer members. SALRC is led by the SALRC Committee and has an independent Chair. All appointments to these positions are on an open and competitive basis and have limited tenure.

HOW TO APPLY:

If you are a young producer, researcher or extension provider from the southern Australian livestock industries and keen to engage in the topics at the Livestock 2024 Conference, please complete the scholarship application form by Monday 22nd July.
